Thursday afternoon and night to plug a 15-foot gap in the earthen dam The dam was damaged yesterday when water spilled over the breastwork during another heavy downpour of rain which caused flooded conditions in many parts of Columbiana County. Yesterday's rainfall, measuring nearly one and one-half inches, raised the record total for July to 12.39 inches, according to District Weather Observer Edwin Copeland. Rainfall Wednesday totaled 2.38 inches. Streams throughout the county are cut of their banks and many owland areas inundated. At least three bridges on county roads were impassable. Many homes here and elsewhere have flooded ued rainfall.

Sandbags Are Used At Leetonia, volunteers using a bulldozer and sandbags, appeared to have saved the weakened earthen dam on Copeland Lake, a newly-formed picnic area near Lee-

Following Wednesday's rainfall Willard Vaughan, owner of the 15acre lake said that an additional two inches of rain would break the dam and send flood waters rushing into Lectonia's business district located some four miles away. State highway patrolmen had said Thursday that it was only a matter of time that the 150-foot long, 20-foot high dam would wash out. They said it had been crumbling steadily through early evening. The 15-foot gap in the breast-works plus the rain which fell yesterday posed a serious threat. However, work by the dozens of volunteers with sandbags and the dozer kept the dam intact.

Little Beaver Creek, which is held by the Washingtonville Dam, overflowed in some spots. Four feet of water backed up in some spots forcing at least four families to flee their homes in a low area near Leetonia.

Sewage Plant Under Water It also washed out the Washington St. bridge causing extensive damage to the village sewage treatment plant. At one time it was reported the pumps at the plant were under 20 feet of water.

Waters of the creek extended over State Route 344 which continued into the Ridge St. area. Another creek south of Ridge St. over flowed carrying its water to the

Foreign Policy Is Everybody's Business

The United States Senate is getting ready to spend $300,000 of your money for a complete study of foreign policy.

It intends to spend another $150,000 for a study of relations with Latin America. The latter study was proposed after Vice President Nixon learned about resentment of the United States last spring when he made a tour of Latin American countries. The former was proposed within a few hours of U.S. armed intervention in the troubled politics of the Middle East.

Foreign policy is everybody's business in a government of popular consent. It has not been explained how a $300,000 study of foreign policy will be conducted, but a reasonable assumption is that scholars will be commissioned to find out where it has been, where it is and where logic would make it go next.

The key to the study's success, therefore, would be the substitution of logic for emotion and prejudice. The aim of logic, of course, would be the fulfillment of the best and highest interests of the United States -all of the United States, which would mean all of the citizens of the United States.

VIA THIS approach and disregarding whatever might happen in the U.N. Security Council, in secret diplomacy before and after the heads of state meet and in the turbulent politics of Middle Eastern countries, the Unied States could arrive at a positive policy formula, as a substitute for what has turned out to be a negative formula.

This country, instead of helping to start something favorable to its aims in the Middle East and other suppressed areas, has let itself be catalogued as an opponent of those who are making a fight against suppression.

It has let itself be catalogued in this way. moreover, after previously winning favor in the Middle East by taking a stand against Britain, France and Israel for reverting to "gunboat" diplomacy against nationalism in

And it has let this happen in a manner that has confused U.S. citizens, who are asked to believe that the sole purpose is to check Communism, when there obviously is more to it than that.

They are asked to believe, moreover, that the immediate objective is to stabiliz the restless politics of Lebanon, when it becomes plainer every day that the restless politics of Iraq cannot be separated from the politics of Lebanon in the muddy explanations of what is afoot.

IT IS CONCEIVABLE that everything which has happened is the epitome of logic and farsightedness; that the foreign policy of the United States is a jewel without flaw and cannot be altered an iota without damaging its perfection; that there has been no improvision and that the general aim of nipping at the tentacles of Communism is a good and sufficient reason to nip at the tentacles of Arab nationalism, too, because they happen to be intertwined.

But if this is so, it has not been made credible to the citizens of this country. There has been either a failure of policy ,or a failure of communication, because Americans do not understand clearly any more how one move fits in with another.

If a $300,000 study of foreign policy can show a pattern of purpose as well as a record of procedure, it will be the diplomatic bargain of the decade.

Penalized for a New Idea

Nothing would be more reassuring to the American public than a provision in the bill for reorganizing the Department of Defense to protect military men with new ideas.

Claire L. Chennault, organizer of the famed "Flying Tigers" of World War II, died this week as a hero. His fame and his incredible success as the first man to prove that coordinated aerial combat teams were worth what they cost were in the record for every-

But like so many other things that military men have proved, Gen. Chennault proved his theory about aerial combat in spite of the traditional rock-headedness of his military superiors. They finally managed to get him out of their hair in 1937 on the excuse that his deafness made him useless. Two other nations thought otherwise. Russia offered him a job as is aviation adviser. So did China. He took the Chinese job and piled up such an astounding record against the Japanese in their bid for domination of the air over Asia that the Pentagon had to change his mind about his deafness and take him back into its organization.

This story is typical. Gen. Chennault was penalized for thinking. He went counter to the established pattern so dear to the military mind, which grows unhappy whenever it is confronted with a challenge to the preconceptions of its reigning brass.

Gen. Chennault's new idea was saved by China, which gave him a chance to demonstrate its value. The U.S. public wonders

County Detention Home

Columbiana County long has had need of a juvenile detention home where youths who run into trouble can be given proper protective shelter while their cases are being disposed of by the court.

Such a building has been proposed by county commissioners and a $125,000 bond issue submitted for a public vote Nov. 4. The county already has $50,000, received in the sale of its interest in the Fairmount Children's Home, and this amount can be applied toward the $125,000 from the bonds. if they are approved.

At the present time juvenile wards must be kept at the county jail or sheltered in a private home, depending on the charge. This is a poor arrangement. The bond issue to help build and equip a juvenile detention and receiving home is one that will merit voters' consideration come next Nov. 4..

Despite alibis and some compensating circumstances surrounding the Texas primaries, the stark fact is that liberal forces, with labor union power predominant, won a smashing victory in what has been known as a very conservative state.

Gov. Price Daniel, a conservative, won easily over several opponents, and perhaps, in co-operation with Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon Johnson, will control the Democratic convention in September.

That convention will choose a state Democratic Executive Committee which, in turn, will have a great deal to do with selecting the Texas delegation to the next naional Democratic convention. (Rayburn came out for Yarborough in this primary, and Johnson was neutral.)

Conservatives may also point to the fact that Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey, cordially hated by the union leaders, won an unprecedented fifth term.

But over all, the strategy of the AFL-CIO political machine succeeded. That strategy is to aim primarily at the control of the Congress of the United States while they let governorships and other offices go by the board for

Khrushchev Unmasks

Letter to Ike Removes All Doubts

If anything were needed to convince the world that Khrushchev never had any serious idea of agreeing to anything important at a summit conference, the letter he sent President Eisenhower on Monday should remove all doubts.

yet man y people who have been ardent in their advocacy of ummit conferences seem to feel that this is the process that will prevent a war.

Possibly this naive attitude arises because the general public isn't aware of the many diplomatic channels in existence through which agreement could readily be consummated if there were the siightest desire to do so.

Possibly also it's because the general public han't been sufficiently familiarized with the tricks of the unscrupulous men in the Kremlin.

Thus the Khrushchev letter is on its face a piece of hypocrisy, especially as it sarcastically argues that perhaps the United States government could not guarantee the safey of heads of foreign governments if the summit meeting were held in New York.

The Soviet chief boasted that there would, of course, b no difficulty protecting foreign visitors in Moscow.

He was evidently relying, when he made that statement, on the short memories of many Americans. For not quite two weeks ago-on July 18-a mob of 100,000 Russians gathered in front of the American Embassy in Moscow and thre ink bottles and stones, shattering most of the windows on the first five floors. Likewise, a mob appeared in front of the British Embassy and manifested its been couched in phrases that showed the slightest basis for an accord on vital issues.

As a consesuence, the replies have been sternly worded. For the President of the United States cannot allow the argument in such letters to go unanswered during the propaganda battle going on over the air waves of the world. One of the principal weaknesses in the American position is the petty attitude of so many antiadministration newspapers in his locality which, because of their deep-seated political and ideological antagonisms domestically, are pouring out criticisms that are geefully quoted by the Soviets over the radio to the Mideast and the world generally.

Such criticisms taken from American newspapers blame the United States for the Middle East situation and back up accusations of aggression.

THERE SEEMS also to be a delight in minimizing what the Communists have done to cause much of the trouble in that part of the

There seems to be a tendency in some quarters in the United States to play Khrushchev's game or at least to glorify him and insist that he must be taken unto the bosom of American officials.

Just why any American would choose the present period of crisis to give vent to such political feelings is incomprehensible. . It was commendable, therefore, of Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) to issue his demand, as he did the other day, that there be a rallying around the executive branch of our government for the president has the primary responsibility of conducting foreign relations. There is no reason why mem-

New Phone Books Now Being Delivered

The new edition of the Salem telephone directory, being delivered this week, has special information for telephone customers in the EDgewood 2 and EDgewood 7 central offices. It contains specific instructions for the use of DIRECT DISTANCE DIALING, the latest advance in telephone service which will go into effect in Salem on Sunday, September 21, 1958. This new long distance dialing service will extend the dialing range of EDgewood 2 and EDgewood 7 telephones throughout most of northeastern Ohio and to certain cities from coast to coast. (Plans are now being made to bring this amazing service to the other communities in this section in the future.) Be sure to read all about it when you get your new phone book. It's the first big step toward nationwide long distance dialing.

You'll notice something different about your new directory. Your telephone numbers are listed with two letters and five figures only, rather than spelling out the central office names. For your convenience, the central office names are spelled out in a special box on each right-hand page so that when you need to give a number to the operator you will be able to tell her the correct exchange.

BRIDGE RESTS ON WATER - Mill Creek near Kelley's Park east of Lectonia is swollen by the incessant rains, causing the water to flood the park road just south of the bridge Thursday afternoon. Thomas Harrold of Columbiana is shown (1-ft above) viewing the scene. Several vehicles became bogged down in the water while trying to reach Copeland lake at the south end of the road yesterday.
